HISTORY

The Council for Independent Archaeology was formed in September 1989 to provide a forum allowing independent archaeologists and local societies to contribute more effectively to archaeology. The Council offers help, support and advice to all, whether members or not.

To this end the Council organises the following:-

- A weekend Congress held every two years in different parts of the UK, usually at a University. Archaeologists can meet and discuss a theme and topics relevant to the moment. They can also demonstrate their work and see what other leading societies and individuals are doing.
- In the intervening years a day conference is held where the Council may honour a successful society, project, or individual and display their work.
- Help to Societies who wish to run a special event and share it with a wider area of the country; they can join with the Council to improve their publicity and profile.
- A newsletter with current topics and readers views, published several times a year, with great potential to improve the archaeological profile of Independents.
- Help in developing and promoting new technology where it can be demonstrated to be advantageous to independent archaeology.

MEMBERSHIP

The Council welcomes new members. Membership is open to all societies and individual archaeologists. Membership is not confined to amateurs - professionals are welcome too!

The subscription is £10 a year, which covers the four newsletters a year, and offers reduced fees for attendance at meetings, conferences etc.

In order to save on administrative costs, a special consolidated four years subscription is available for only £36, providing a valuable discount on the annual subscription.

To subscribe, please fill out the form over, and send it to:

The Hon Treasurer, Kevan Fadden, 7 Lea Road, Ampthill, Bedford, MK45 2PR

- together with the appropriate remittance. Cheques to be made out to “The Council for Independent Archaeology”. Sorry, we cannot yet take credit cards!)
